

Sunday River®

Greetings Snowmakers!

For 27 years, Sunday River has hosted a Firefighters' Race, where we invite firefighters from all around New England to team up in groups of five to race down a simple slalom course in their full turnout gear while holding a fire hose. This year, we wanted to mix it up a little. We thought about who we could invite to make competition a little zestier. Could it be EMT's, police, coast guard, military men? All were great but there was one item missing. The hose! And then the answer was so clear as we watched one of our very own snowmakers hook up a hose on the slopes outside of our office. And so, the very first Masters of the Hose Competition was born. On Sunday, March 26, 2017, we welcome the very people who make it all possible, the snowmakers, to join this fierce competition and enjoy some of that very snow they work so hard to create. Snowmakers from any and all New England resorts are encouraged to join us and show pride for their home mountains.

The Competition will be broken up into three parts. First, the teams of firefighters will each take their runs, and the fastest time wins. Then, our snowmaking teams will take their runs in their full gear, including a hose, to determine the fastest team amongst them. Part three, The Hose Off, pits the best firefighter team and the best snowmaker against one another to determine which team has the Masters of the Hose; firefighters or snowmakers? The cost of this event will be $150 per team. This includes five Sunday River lift tickets and five t-shirts.
